

The shadow of marriage

Singleness in England, 1914–60

Katherine Holden

Katherine Holden is a Research Fellow in History at the University of the West of England

Gender in History
November 2007
 hb 978-0-7190-6892-8 £55.00
 216x138mm 272pp

This book stakes out new territory within an exciting, emerging field of study. Not only does it uncover the history of a neglected group, but it also offers valuable insights into the significance of marital status which are equally relevant to current debates on marriage and family.

The book examines representations and experiences of men and women who never married between 1914 and 1960, drawing upon an exceptionally wide range of sources including biographies, oral histories, novels, films, government statistics and social surveys. An introductory chapter on work and non-familial lifestyles highlights the significance of age, generation and gender. The main focus in the rest of the book is on unmarried men and women's intimate, sexual, familial and professional relationships. These raise important questions about how these categories have been defined and expose power relations between married and single people. The material on adult/child relationships is particularly innovative. The author probes the boundaries of the nuclear family in the mid twentieth century through her account of the high levels of interest and involvement in children's care and education by unmarried women as well as largely invisible relationships between children and unmarried men.

As the first major study of the history of single women and men in England, this will be a valuable resource for researchers and students in social history, gender studies, women's studies, social policy

CONTENTS:

- List of tables
- Acknowledgements
- List of abbreviations
- 1 Introduction: The prince may yet come
- 2 'Consider her palaces': work, housing and life styles
- 3 Family standbys: brothers, sisters, daughters, sons
- 4 Relations without a name: sex and intimacy
- 5 Mad or bad? Parenthood outside marriage
- 6 'A world clamouring for motherhood': adoption and fostering
- 7 Family romances: aunts and uncles
- 8 Interest and emotion: professional and paid work with children
- 9 Conclusion: 'other' lives
- Appendices
- Select bibliography of secondary sources
- Index

and sociology. Its accessible style and the inclusion of personal material from the author's life and family will undoubtedly also attract a wider readership.

"An excellent and accessibly written book on an important but neglected topic in gender history."

Pat Thane, Leverhulme Professor of Contemporary British History, Institute of Historical Research, University of London.

Title	Isbn	Qty	Total
The shadow of marriage	978-0-7190-6892-8
For UK orders, please add £3.00 for postage and packing for the first book, and £1.00 for each additional book, up to a maximum of £10.00. To obtain a quote for overseas shipping, please call NBNi on +44 (0) 1752 202301 or email csevs@nbninternational.com. All MUP books can be ordered online at www.nbninternational.com			Postage TOTAL

Please send me a pro-forma invoice
 I enclose a cheque payable to NBN INTERNATIONAL for £.....
 Please debit my VISA/Mastercard (delete as appropriate) for £.....
 Please charge my Switch card (issue number.....)

Card No...../..... Expiry date...../..... Security Strip No..... Signature.....
 Name..... Address.....
 Tel/Fax..... Email:.....

*Please note all prices are correct at time of going to press but are subject to alteration without notice
 Please return your order to: Orders Dept., NBN International, 10 Estover Road, Plymouth, Devon, PL6 7PY.
 Tel: +44 (0) 1752 202301 Fax: +44 (0) 1752 202333 Email: orders@nbninternational.com Website www.nbninternational.com