The Gender Lecture Series aims to deepen understanding of the complexity of gender issues by exploring their multiple dimensions at both the international and domestic levels.

The 2026-2027 series focuses on precarity as a broad analytical lens for examining contemporary social, political, and legal challenges. Through an interdisciplinary perspective, the lectures explore how precarity is experienced, produced, and contested across different contexts, highlighting the central role of gender inequalities in shaping contemporary life.

Participation is open to the public and free of charge.
The hybrid events will be held at World Trade Institute. It will be possible to attend all the events remotely via Zoom.
